Arting Around...

MIDTOWN FESTIVAL RETURNS TO BALDWIN PARK By Katherine Mestousis

Artists and art fanatics, the season is once again upon us! You've guessed it...the 4th Annual Midtown Art in the Park 2010 is quickly approaching. The wildly successful and ever growing celebration of fine art will again be located among the towering oak trees of Midtown's own Elizabeth Baldwin Park. Mark your calendars for Saturday, April 10, 2010, 10 AM - 5 PM.

Art in the Park 2010 offers patrons a truly unique experience. Visitors enjoy the opportunity to stroll along shaded paths lined with artists showing their original works. Unlike so many art festivals that promise fine art but don't deliver, Midtown Art in the Park showcases a plethora of unique works from local and regional artists. Any and everything your heart desires...from painting to pen and ink, from watercolor to wood carving, from photography to pottery, from sculpture to skillfully hand-blown glass.

Admission is free so bring your family and friends, pack a picnic lunch and come out to enjoy the park, the art, hundred-year old oaks, signature Midtown benches, the children's playground and the Vietnamese Heritage Plaza, all tucked inside Houston's best known urban community, Midtown. Baldwin Park is located on Elgin Street, between Crawford and Chenevert Streets.

Midtown Art in the Park is accepting artists' submissions through March 19, 2010 for unique and unusual fine art—nothing crafty, that's a different event. So artists, don't let the opportunity to showcase your work to an audience like none other pass you by.
